COURSE DESCRIPTION

What does it mean to be a man? The course sets out to find answers to this question by exploring the social meanings of masculinity. We will examine the creation and negotiation of male identities, in Canada and other countries, in past and contemporary times. From the school yard to the work place, through initiation rites and adult relationships, variations in male experience and behaviours are presented. The framework of readings and multimedia will investigate popular culture, film, fiction, life story, and academic theory. This range of perspectives will illustrate how diverse men “do gender”.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

This course aims to provide students with:

- An understanding about the social construction of gender.
- The means to examine ideas about men and male behaviours through a sociological lens
- A framework of major theory which enables students to identify and evaluate the local and global issues men face today
- A range of masculinities literature and media by and about men

DELIVERY METHODS/FORMAT

Classes will consist of lectures and discussions based on the texts, readings, and films/video clips in the course.

ASSESSMENTS

Examinations

- There are two exams in this course, a mid-term and a final exam.
- Examinations will cover lecture material, assigned readings, and possibly some film/video clip content.
- The mid-term exam may be composed of short questions, which are true/false, multiple-choice, definitions, and short essay questions. These questions cover an overview of the course to that point.
- The final exam is scheduled during exam week. It covers the course from mid-term to near the end of term and will follow a similar format to the mid term covering course content from the mid-term, and, possibly over views of the course.

Term Paper

Research Paper will be based on self-researched topic by the student but must be approved by me by no later than September 29th. The paper format is APA, length 12 double-spaced pages excluding the references. Students will have sufficient preliminary knowledge by the date mentioned as to the direction/nature of the topic and paper.

Other Assignments

There will be a number of short assignments: theoretical understanding of masculinities and practical implications of masculinities. There are no points assigned to these assignments but these will be of great use/help for overall discussion in the class. Needless to say, these assignments will help the students to have general and/or particular insights into their own research topic.

Deadlines

Marks will be deducted for late assignments 1 mark a day up to 5 days at which time the assignment will not be accepted for marking. If delays are unavoidable due to extenuating circumstances (i.e., illness, bereavement) you must consult with and receive permission for an extension. Illness of over 2 days must be confirmed by a doctor's note.

Participation

- Your participation in class is essential to the development of class unity and the learning process for everyone including yourself.
- Group discussion offers you a forum in which to express your own ideas and to be educated through the ideas of others.
- We will create together a respectful environment where everyone will feel safe and encouraged to speak. This means that each person must monitor their own speech so that they do not "give" more than their fair share. When you are uncertain about something --ask, probably someone else is wondering the same thing.

ACADEMIC AND STUDENT CONDUCT

Information on academic standing and student rights and responsibilities can be found in the current Academic Regulations that are posted on the Student Services/ Admissions & Registration web page.

PLAGIARISM

Plagiarism is a serious academic offence. Plagiarism occurs when students present the words of someone else as their own. Plagiarism can be the deliberate use of a whole piece of another person's writing, but more frequently it occurs when students fail to acknowledge and document sources from which they have taken material. Whenever the words, research or ideas of others are directly quoted or paraphrased, they must be documented according to an accepted manuscript style (e.g., APA, CSE, MLA, etc.). Resubmitting a paper which has previously received credit is also considered plagiarism. Students who plagiarize material for assignments will receive a mark of zero (F) on the assignment and may fail the course. Plagiarism may also result in dismissal from a program of study or the College.
