Mobile Apps for Class Assignments

While the Library can provide a limited supply of AV resources (mostly for audio and video recording) depending on instructor's authorization, we cannot guarantee all requests from students will be accommodated.

What to do if audiovisual equipment cannot be provided by the Library?

Current cell phones, tablets, and music players come with apps for recording audio and video. Exploring these apps is a good option. Additionally, you can check the following suggestions for Android and Apple devices.

Android

Recommended free apps for audio recording

- Smart Voice Recorder (by SmartMob)
- Voice Recorder (by Splend Apps)
- Audio recorder (by Green Apple Studio)
- Titanium Recorder (by Sappalodapps)
- Audio Recorder (by Sony Mobile Communications)

Recommended free apps for playing audio/video files

- VLC for Android (by Videolabs)

Recommended free apps for video recording/editing

- VideoShow – Video Editor (by EnjoyMobi Video Editor Studio)
- Google Photos

Notice that maximum recording time and formats vary depending on the application. Check the description of each app to decide which one is the best option for what you need to do.

To install any of these apps, go to the Google Play store (http://play.google.com) and search for the app name.

Apple
